P R E F A C E .

HIS work was undertaken with the view of supplying a great want of the Royal Irish Constabulary, and of kindred public services ; and also of providing a “Road Book,” of a reliable and comprehensive character, for the use of cyclists and tourists, of Irish travellers, and others of the public who may desire to travel through our beautiful Island.

The Compiler and Editor has been at very great pains to avoid inaccuracy and prolixity, and has striven to condense the mass of information given, both by the use of contractions and symbols, and by the stringent avoidance of merely ornamental description. He has in the design and execution forborne from trespassing on the domain and scope of all other “Guides” to Ireland which travellers have at their disposal. In this way, it is hoped that the effort will receive the support of the travelling public, whom it is designed to serve, and be spared the rivalry of other similar works, useful each in its own sphere.

The labour of compilation has been exceedingly heavy : and were it not for the ungrudging assistance so freely tendered by members of the great Royal Irish Constabulary Force of all ranks, —from the Inspector-General, who kindly sanctioned the use of the splendid organization under his command, to the junior constable, who, perhaps an enthusiastic cyclist, did his utmost to place his local knowledge at the service of the public—it would have been impossible of execution. To all and every assistant in the very laborious undertaking, whose names are embodied in their place in the work, my best thanks and acknowledgments are due, and are very gratefully tendered. To one especially, who, by his untiring zeal, intelligence, and ability contributed very largely to the accuracy of the intricate details—my clerk, Constable Robert Callaghan, R.I.C., of Lisnaskea—my very special thanks are due, for his willing labour and assiduous perseverance in checking the tots of such voluminous and intricate returns. I may be pardoned for hoping that some recognition of his sterling worth may be bestowed on him, such as I cannot give, but such as he deserves. The book, as it leaves my hands, is not perfect, but I hope that it will be accepted as an honest effort to provide a useful Guide-book not hitherto available.

The printing of such a book deserves a word of remark, as it was an undertaking of a very unusual, and most difficult kind. The printer will, I hope, not be overlooked, the more so as the work was done in Ireland by an Irishman, and, in my humble judgment, is a credit to him.

The system of alphabeticising all details has been followed : in a few instances where the strict sequence has been, in a very small degree, departed from, it was due, I understand, to the exigencies of composing the pages, and technical considerations.

A list of “Addenda et Corrigenda” is given, which, considering the extraordinary difficulties of such a work, will not, I hope, be considered unduly extensive.

The book, as a “Road Book,” is almost exhaustive of all the roads in Ireland. When it is considered that in each case the route from place to place, with nearly every turn, every hill, and every cross-road met with, is indicated, and the distance between each one and the next adjoining is given, it was, I submit, a very great feat to have attempted, and one almost impossible to have performed altogether without mistake or inaccuracy. Actual minute measurements were not contemplated, and would have been out of place, and even confusing ; but the distances given are the careful estimates of intelligent men, familiar, by their daily and nightly duty of patrolling these very roads, with the distances and turnings ; and their estimates are checked, in their turn, by two considerations—

(1) Every Route is given both ways, i.e., going and coming, and by different persons : one at each end of every Route.

(2) The known and reputed distance from place to place must agree with total of all the intervening spaces from cross road to cross road, and thus an undue expansion of these distances, either by carelessness or mistaken estimate, is prevented.

A single careful reading of the “Instructions” will render at once intelligible, the plan on which the work was designed. The amount of information given could not otherwise have been included in the limits of a book intended for the overcoat pocket, or the hand-bag of the tourist.

The notes of the objects of interest at each place are mainly Historical or Archæological, and are simply intended to remind the traveller of what to look for ; the places, when found, will sufficiently describe themselves to anyone interested in such things.

With this book is also given a copy of the best Map of Ireland, of convenient size, which the Editor could find, after an extensive search. The body of the Map is Keith Johnston’s “Royal” Atlas Map—his best work. To it has been made additions specially for this work, at great labour and expense. All the new railways now in course of construction, or recently completed, are shown.

Distance lines give, at a glance, the shortest route between some thousand places. These distances are "as the crow flies," and have been derived from an authoritative source, founded on the Ordnance Survey. Any difference between the distance on the map and in the book, is accounted for by the consideration that roads deviate sometimes considerably, and the shortest route is not necessarily practicable. The Roads are shown in scarlet; the Rivers (inland waters) and their names in bright blue; the Sea shading in green; the distance lines in black; Railroads are in solid scarlet lines; while the body, names of Towns, shading, etc., are in purplish mauve. Never before has a Map, so elaborate and accurate, on such a scale, and giving so much information, with so many distinguishing printings, been published. It is therefore almost an unique work in itself. This Map is not bound in, so as to permit of its being removed from its case for consultation, on a table if necessary, without the risk of tearing. It can also be had separately from the book, mounted in a cover.

To the subscribers, and to the public, who will, he hopes, see reason to encourage a work of usefulness, of severe labour, and of protracted anxiety, undertaken with the object of serving them in the best way, the Editor and Compiler submits his effort in the humble hope of some measure of approval and patronage.

G. A. DE M. E. DAGG.

LISNASKEA, 23rd May, 1893.

INSTRUCTIONS

Explaining the Contractions, etc., used in the Work.

EACH Police Barrack in Ireland is the centre of a circle of "Circumjacent" Stations. Each Police Station has sent in a return, on identical lines, giving similar information as regards itself and circumjacent neighbouring Police Barracks, which are printed in uniform style and sequence. The contractions are almost self-explanatory. One return having been described, every other one will be understood, because the same symbols and sequence are observed in every case. There is a Police Station of the Royal Irish Constabulary in every place of importance in Ireland (outside the Dublin Metropolitan District, which is not included in the scope of this work). In a great many cases, also, Police Stations are, in country places, on the roadside, or elsewhere, of but little note except locally : they are generally known by the name of the townland in which they are situated. In this way it will be understood that almost every public road in Ireland is described ; being, so to say, radii of the extraordinary system of intersecting circles, whose centres are R.I.C. Stations, and whose circumferences pass through the adjacent stations.

First comes the name of the station (in heavy type) ; next, whether it be in a City (C) ; a Town (T) ; a Village (V) ; or on the Roadside, or in a Rural locality (R). Next comes the population of that place by the Census of 1891, in parenthesis, thus (1234). Then follows the name of the Barony, and next of the Parliamentary Electoral Division, and County, and Riding, and Province, in which the place lies ;—these particulars generally fix the locality sufficiently to indicate the whereabouts of the place, even without the aid of the splendid map. Then come the words, "Tel. 8-8." This indicates that the place has a Telegraph Office, which is open for business from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., or for whatever hours is stated in this way. The dates on which fairs are held is next given—the capital F indicating that "Fairs are held on" such and such dates. If the fairs occur on fixed days of the week they are so shown—"F, 1 m." means on "the 1st monday in each month," or, as the case may be, 1st, 2nd, 3rd, or 4th m. (monday), t. (tuesday), w. (wednesday), th. (thursday), f. (friday), s. (saturday). Market days are indicated in a precisely similar manner : thus, "M, m.," means "Markets are held on every monday." "D.I.," or "C.I.," or "R.M.," indicates that a "District Inspector," or "County Inspector of R.I.C.," or a "Resident Magistrate" is stationed at the place. "B" means that there is a public Boat for Police use there. "PS" indicates that Petty Sessions are held on the days shown as Fairs or Markets are, as explained above. "P.St." stands for "Polling Station," but NOT Petty Sessions. Then follow the initials of the Railway Company, if the place have a Railway Station ; if it be not a Railway Station, the name of the nearest Railway Station to the place, and its distance, is indicated so : say for Ballinaboola—"Palace East, 6, D. W. & W. RY.," means that "Palace East, a station on the Dublin, Wicklow, and Wexford Company's System, is the nearest Railway Station for Ballinaboola, and is distant from it six miles." Then is indicated by the figure (1) in parenthesis, in heavy type, the hours at which the letter mails arrive at the local Post-Office : (2) the hours at which the boxes are cleared for the despatch of mail matter at the local Post Office : (3) the nature of the Postal business accommodation supplied by the local Post-Office—thus, PO (Post-Office), SB (Savings Bank), MOO (Money Order Office), or if there be no PO, the name and distance of the nearest PO : (4) indicates if there be "Post Cars" or vehicles for hire available at the place, and the figure following the "Yes" indicates, approximately, the number of such vehicles available at ordinary times for hire : and lastly, (5) follow the names of places of beauty or interest, locally or historically, or in any way such as to afford any satisfaction to the visitor, and their approximate distances. In a great number of cases, dates and short details are given ; and for these, in most cases, the Editor is responsible. In the case of cities in which the number of Police Stations is large a short general account of the history, etc., of the place is prefixed after the name of the city. (See Belfast, Cork, Limerick, Londonderry, Waterford, and Wexford). The dates have been verified ; and in the case of the Abbeys, etc., “Ware’s Antiquities of Ireland” (Harris, Dublin, 1764) has been the source of the statements made. Much information has been gleaned from many sources of established character, too numerous to be recited here. For them, in a majority of cases, the Editor is responsible, and he trusts that some may be found of general interest and value.

In smaller type follows the especially distinctive feature of this work.

In Column 1 is placed, in alphabetical sequence, the names of the Police Stations “lying around” the place to which each paragraph refers, and each place is distinguished as—C., city ; T., town ; V., village ; or R., rural.

Further, it will be noticed that the names are printed in different styles of type, thus :—plain ordinary type (technically “Roman” type, Nonpareil size) indicates that the place is in the same county, AND in the same District-Inspector’s district as the place at the head of the paragraph ; “Italic” type indicates that it is in the same county, but NOT in the same District-Inspector’s district as the place at the head of the paragraph ; and finally, a place printed in “small Capitals” Roman type, is NOT in the same district, NOR in the same county, as the place named at the head of the paragraph.

The name of the member of the Force who supplied the information concerning the places and the roads, etc., of the paragraph is printed, with his rank, at the end of the large print paragraph, although the small print part of the paragraph is his work also.

After the name of the place and its designation, comes its distance in English miles, and parts of a mile from the principal place heading the paragraph.

In the 3rd Column is one or more Capital letters, from "A" to "I," indicating the kind of Roads that are met on that particular "route" as regards "levelness and breadth."

A	means	that	the	road	is	"Level and broad."	(2 four-wheeled vehicles can trot abreast).
B	"	"	"	"	"	"Level and narrow."	(ordinary county roads).
C	"	"	"	"	"	"Up and down hill, and broad."
D	"	"	"	"	"	"Up and down hill, and narrow."
E	"	"	"	"	"	"Up-hill, steep and broad."
F	"	"	"	"	"	"Up-hill, steep and narrow."
G	"	"	"	"	"	"Down-grade,"	not too steep for use.
H	"	"	"	"	"	"Hilly ;"	so steep as to necessitate walking.
I	"	"	"	"	"	Impassable	for ordinary wheel traffic.

In the next adjoining Column is indicated, by one or more Capital letters, the character of the average condition of the "surface of the road"—the "state" of the road surface on a general average—thus: "G." = good; "B." = bad; "I." = indifferent; "R." rocky or "rutty"; "S." = stony or sandy; "P." = poor, i.e., "darned"; "F." = fair, and so on. Whenever part of the "route" is by Sea, it is noted in full in this Column "Sea."

In the last and broadest Column the actual route is indicated in extenso, in the following way:—The first fraction represents the distance, in English miles, or part of a mile, from the Police Barrack to the first cross-road OUTSIDE THE TOWN on the way FROM THE PRINCIPAL PLACE, at the head of the paragraph, TO THE PLACE in that line. All lanes, avenues, bog roads, gates, and such insignificant paths are entirely disregarded. The letters R. (right) and L. (left), indicate to which hand you keep or turn, at a place where either a turn is made at a X road, or only two roads "fork."

INSTRUCTIONS.

X. indicates a cross-road, where you make no turn, but "go straight on," i.e., you take the middle road of the three roads met at the X road. If a place occurs where MORE than four roads meet, the turn to be taken is shown by the letter V and a "superior" numeral, thus, "V⁵," means that "you take the 5th road," counting round from your left hand (like the hands of a clock), not counting the road by which you arrive at the point at which the "star" radiates. Thus V⁵ would indicate that, having arrived at the point in the centre, as shown by the arrow, you leave by the road numbered 5. A dangerous hill is shown in its place in this column by Δ for an uphill and by V for a downhill. F. indicates a ferry, and the fraction the length of the ferry. S. means shore (of the sea); thus, "S. 6 S." means "shore to shore is 6 miles of sea," or "6 miles sea." W. means "fresh water," as on a lake or river; S. means "sea or salt water." The roads on each shore of the ferry are indicated as in the case of cross-roads (explained above). Thus each fraction represents, as it is placed in line, the part of an English mile that intervenes between each turn indicated by R., or L., or X., or V⁵, and the last fraction is the distance from the last cross-road to the R.I.C Barrack in that line. The total of the fractions always MUST agree with the distance as given in the 2nd column.

Now, as explained, the route is written from every place to the next, so that if you be at any place, and want to go to the next, or vice versa, turn up the place at which you are, as in a Dictionary, and you find what you want. Again, if you want to return from the place, by referring to its name you get the road back, which may be a different route of equal length to the route by which you came; or if it be the same, the route "home" will be found to be identical with the route "out," only read backwards, changing R. into L. and L. into R. In this way, sometimes, choice of two routes is afforded: then the relative merits of each can be determined by consulting columns 3 and 4, which show the kind and quality of the roads. In towns and cities streets are indicated in column 4 by "P." or "M.," meaning "paved" or "macadamised" streets.

In making a distinction between "towns" and "villages," a very great difference of opinion seemed to exist among the sergeants. In the first portion of the book, the Compiler did not notice this soon enough to have it remedied ; but in the subsequent portions a careful revise was made on the basis of 1,000 inhabitants by census. Thus all of 1,000 and over are towns ; all under 1,000 are villages. This is not laid down except as a conventional distinction for the purpose of avoiding discrepancies in reference.

BELFAST CITY. (Pop. 273,058). The Commercial Capital of the North of Ireland : Upper Belfast Barony : Co. Antrim : Ulster. Has four Members to the Imperial Parliament—one each for the North, South, East, and West Divisions : Lies partly in the County of Down, of which the portion embraced in the City of Belfast is part of the Barony of Upper Castle-reagh, and East Division of that county.

Belfast has a Lord Mayor and Corporation (1892), since raised to the rank of a City ; although Manchester and Liverpool have only "Mayors." The Police Force is a special Division of the Royal Irish Constabulary, in command of a Commissioner of Police, who holds the rank of a County Inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary, but senior of that rank. The City has five District Inspectors and a complete Police organisation. The chief offices are in the Municipal Buildings, at the foot of High Street. Two R.M.'s. sit daily for police cases.

Tel. open always. (1) 7 a.m., 10.20 a.m., beside local mails : (2) 3.25 p.m., 4.25 p.m., 7.30 p.m., 8.40 p.m. : (3) Every branch of PO business ; No delivery by postmen on Sundays ; Letters given to callers within certain hours : (4) Unlimited practically : (5) See Special Notes. G. E. Dagg, 1st D.I.

contains the seat of Mr. Montgomery, J.P., built on the site of "Bally-mac-Patrick," a stronghold of the Condon family. This castle was taken by David, Earl of Barrymore, in January, 1642, from the Irish, and the garrison afterwards executed. On the opposite side of the Blackwater, near the exit of the Rivers Funcheon and Arraglin, are the ruins of another of those ancient castles, called Ballyderoon, which means "a place between two Rivers," and which also belonged to this once powerful and warlike tribe or sept; with the Castles of Carrigabrick and Lichash nearer Fermoy. CORK. (Pop. 73,345). A very ancient City on the River Lee ; the See of a Bishop from very ancient times. It is the Commercial Capital of the South of Ireland. It has a separate Force of the R.I.C., and is divided into two Districts—North and South—each under a D.I. ; two R.M.'s are stationed here ; the City is the Headquarters of the South-Western Division, under a Divisional Commissioner, who is a County Inspector R.I.C. It is the Headquarters also of the Military South-Western District. Queenstown, the Port of Cork, is the Station of the Flagship of the Irish Naval Command, and the principal port of call for the North Atlantic Liners. St. Finnbarr's Cathedral, Shandon R.C. Church, the Courthouse, the Military Barrack on top of Patrick's Hill, the Glanmire Terminus and Junction, and the River, Quays, and Steamers form the principal attractions, while Patrick Street, The Mall, and Grand Parade are especially fine streets. The "Mardyke" is the favourite promenade. The Butter Exchange forms a very busy scene on the principal sale days. G. E. Dagg, 1st D.I.

LIMERICK CITY. (Pop. 37,159). Limerick is reckoned the fourth City of Ireland, and is one of the most historical Cities in the Kingdom. It was a walled garrison City in old times, the old City having been built on King's Island, but the modern City extends on both sides of the Shannon, and consists of three parts—Irishtown or Garryowen, King's Island, and Newtown-Pery. The ancient name was "Lumneach." About 550 A.D. St. Munchin founded a Bishop's See here, and built a church, destroyed by the Danes about 853. Donat O'Brien, King of Limerick (Thomond), founded the Cathedral about 1200. The City obtained its first charter, 1195. John Stafford, first Provost; Adam Servant, first Mayor, 1198. The City was often besieged, captured, recaptured, burnt, rebuilt, etc. Repulsed Cromwell 1649; taken by Ireton in 1651, after six months' siege; besieged by Ginckel 1690, and surrendered on most honourable terms 3rd Oct., 1691. A terrible explosion occurred (1st Feb., 1694) of 218 barrels of gunpowder, which killed many; a similar explosion occurred 12 Jan., 1837.

The Danes (about 900) greatly extended its commerce. The English first captured the City 1174. The Castle and Tower sustained a great many sieges, etc., and from the disgraceful repudiation of the treaty, made by Wm. III. on the surrender of Sarsfield and the Garrison 1691, by the Irish Parliament 1695, the City has acquired the name of "The City of the Violated Treaty." The Cathedral of St. Mary is of Gothic architecture, and contains fine tombs of the Kings of Thomond. The Tower commands a very fine view. The Thomond Castle and Treaty Stone are still preserved. The Quays are extensive, and there is a fine Graving Dock (opened by Earl Spencer, 13th May, 1873) and a Floating Dock, admitting vessels of 3000 tons. Sarsfield Bridge has a swivel span, admitting vessels, and crosses the river at the upper end of the quays. G. E. Dagg, 1st D.I.

LONDONDERRY CITY.—Stands on a hill 119 feet above high water ; is a walled and fortified place, formerly of great strategic strength. (Pop. 32,893). It is the See of a Bishop, a County of a City, and a Parliamentary Borough. Like Belfast, it has a separate Force of R.I.C., under a D.I., to the cost of which the City makes a contribution. The See is of very great antiquity ; St. Columba founded an Abbey here in 546 A.D. The name “Londonderry” commemorates its colonization by the London Companies, to whom James I. granted a charter. The “Siege of Derry,” when the Protestants under Col. Rev. George Walker, D.D., who assumed the place deserted by the recreant Governor, “Lundy,” made a heroic defence against King James’ II. Irish army, 1690. The Siege lasted 105 days, costing the Garrison over 10,000 men, and the Besiegers over 8,000 men. The Cathedral is a noble Gothic edifice, founded 1633. The King’s stores contain some old pieces of ordnance, the “Walker,” dated 1642, being among the old cannon. “Roaring Meg” is an old piece on the Walls, which are still preserved. Four miles north-west of Derry is the “Grianan,” Aileach Neid, the great stone palace of the Kings of Ulidia—the O’Neills—destroyed by Murtough O’Brien in 1101. G. E. Dagg, 1st D.I.

WATERFORD CITY. (Pop. 23,961). The City built 879 ; burnt totally 981 ; rebuilt and enlarged by Strongbow 1171. Henry VII. granted charter to the Citizens. Cromwell stormed the City and massacred the garrison 1649. Richard II. landed and was crowned here in 1399. James II. here embarked for France, and lost his crown finally 1690. William III. resided here twice and confirmed its privileges. The Cathedral, dedicated to the Blessed Trinity, built by Ostmen (Danes) and by Malchus, Bishop of Waterford, 1096. The See united to Lismore 1363. The See was also united with Lismore to that of Cashel and Emly (3 and 4 Wm. IV., c. 37), 14 Aug., 1833. The interior of the Cathedral, fine organ, etc., destroyed by fire 25 Oct., 1815. A wooden bridge of 39 arches, 832 feet long, unites the City with Ferrybank, on the Kilkenny side of the Suir—here a noble river. The harbour and quay are 15 miles from the sea. The river, at the mouth of the estuary, is 2½ miles wide. The Hook Lighthouse, fixed white, 139 feet above high water, and a red light, 46 feet high, on Dunmore Pier mark the entrance.

There were many monastic foundations in this ancient City. A Priory of St. John, founded by King John 1185. St. Saviour's Friary (1226) and the Augustin Convent, founded by Hugh, Lord Purcell, of which the steeple still remains.

WEXFORD T. (Pop. 11,545). Wexford was a Danish town, and one of the first English colonies in Ireland. The Slaney is a fine river, and the Harbour of Wexford spacious, but shallow. The bridge is 2100 feet long and 42 feet wide, admitting vessels to pass up the river, in the middle. Near the West gate is a mineral spa. The town was walled and fortified, and sustained many sieges. The Castle was built by Fitz Stephen 1170. Henry II. embarked here, after receiving the homage of the Irish Kings and Princes. Cromwell stormed Wexford 1649, and slaughtered Sir Edward Butler and the entire garrison. In 1798 the rebels took possession of it; on their retreat from it they hanged ninety-seven persons on the bridge. St. Selskar's Abbey Church and St. Mary's are very handsome. St. Selskar's was built by the Danes, and dedicated to SS. Peter and Paul. St. Mary's, in ruins, has graceful arches on circular pillars, and the choir is entered by a Saxon arch: there are several very fine tombs in it. There was a Preceptory of the Hospitallers of St. John of Jerusalem, founded by William de Marescal; it was the "Grand Priory" until, on the suppression of the Templars, the Hospitallers moved to Kilmainham. Ferrycarrig Castle, 2½, on the Slaney; Cromwell Fort, 1; Johnstown Castle, 2.

ARMAGH C. This City is the Ecclesiastical Capital of Ireland, both Catholic and Protestant. Is very ancient. St. Patrick, in 444, was its first Bishop ; said to have founded its Cathedral in 450. Six Saints of the Roman Calendar have been Archbishops. The Pallium, first conferred on Gelasius, Archbishop of Armagh, 1151, by Cardinal Paparo, Papal Legate : the See was valued at £15,000 per annum, previous to the disestablishment of the Irish Church, July 1, 1869. Cathedral, cruciform, with square tower rising at intersection of nave and transepts ; beautified by last Primate ; on top of the hill on which the City is built. Its ancient records, churches, and the City itself, were destroyed by fire by the Danes 852. Archbishopric since 1142. King Brian Boroimhé is buried in the Cathedral. Archbishop Ussher here drew up the Articles for the Church of Ireland. Archbishop Browne, of Dublin, made Primate of Ireland, in consequence of the refusal of Archbishop "Parson" Dowdall, of Armagh, to accept the Reformation. However, the Archbishops, Catholic and Protestant, of Armagh are styled "Primates of all Ireland." The Cathedral dates from 1260. The Augustine Priory of SS. Peter and Paul was much renowned. Armagh is still largely a residentiary City, although it is also a good commercial town.

BAGENALSTOWN. For "Bagnalslawn" read "Bagenalstown."

BELFAST. Page 55, last line, for "High Street" read "Victoria Street."

In the case of all the Parliamentary Divisions of Belfast given under each heading, before the word "Division," insert the word "Belfast."

Donegall Pass, Belfast. For "Upper Castlereagh" read "Upper Belfast" (barony).

EDENDERRY. The old Fair has been altered by Order in Council (12th May, 1893), from 4th November to 1st Tuesday in November.

THE ROYAL IRISH CONSTABULARY FORCE.

The first regular Police Force established throughout Ireland was originated by the Act 54, George III., cap. 131, passed in 1814. Originally the expense was defrayed partly by Grand Jury Presentments and partly out of the Consolidated Fund; but the Act 9 and 10 Vic., cap. 97, passed in 1846, provides that the whole expense shall be borne by the Consolidated Fund, except a moiety of the cost of additional Constabulary Force applied for by the Magistrates of any county or district, or of the Reserve Force when employed therein, or of an increased force stationed there by the Lord Lieutenant. The Act 6 Wm. IV., cap. 13, likewise authorised the Lord Lieutenant to appoint Resident Stipendiary Magistrates to act in disturbed districts. The Constabulary Force, on the 30th September, 1891, consisted of an Inspector-General, 1 Deputy-Inspector-General, 3 Assistant Inspectors-Generals, a Surgeon, Veterinary Surgeon, 1 Barrack-master and Store-keeper, 1 Town Inspector (Belfast), 36 County Inspectors, 229 District Inspectors, 260 Head-Constables, 12,051 Sergeants, Acting-Sergeants, and Constables.

The Dublin Metropolitan Police are the senior Police Force in Ireland (48 George III., c. 140). The "Circular Road" is by this Act made the boundary of the City (sec. 58), and eight miles radius the bounds of the Police District (eight miles radius round the Castle), sec. 2.

THE EXPENDITURE ON THE R.I.C. FORCE.—Years ended 31st March, 1888, 1889, 1890, and 1891, was as follows:—

TESTIMONIALS.

GEORGE'S STREET, SLIGO, October 20th, 1888.
GENTLEMEN,—Having suffered from Corns for many years, I resolved to try your CIRCASSIAN CORN CURE, which is warranted to remove Corns in one week. I applied it for five nights in succession (according to directions), and am happy to say they are entirely removed. I can confidently recommend this valuable remedy to all sufferers.

Yours truly, (Signed) ARTHUR WARD.

MULRANEY, NEWPORT, Co. MAYO, May 22nd, 1889.
SIRS,—Please send me a bottle of your CIRCASSIAN CORN CURE. I enclose eleven stamps. I got a bottle some two months ago, and it cured a corn I had for 14 YEARS. It is WORTH £1 PER BOTTLE. The fame of your CORN CURE will soon be spread far and near in this part of the country.

Yours respectfully, BERNARD FLANAGAN.

MAYNOOTH COLLEGE, June 8th, 1889.
GENTLEMEN,—Your warranty is fully verified in my experience. The eradication of the Corn was effected by five applications of the Cure.

Yours faithfully, REV. T. A. MOLDLEY, O.C.

BARRACK STREET, SLIGO, December 13th, 1889.
SIRS,—I have suffered from Corns during the past 40 years. I tried your CORN CURE for six nights, it has removed the Corns free of pain. I can safely recommend it to all suffering from Corns.

I am, Sirs, your obedient servant, WM. CHARLTON (Senn.).

KNOX'S STREET, SLIGO, June 30th, 1889.
SIRS,—I have tried all remedies for Corns for years without avail, until I tried your CIRCASSIAN CORN CURE, which has cured me completely in one week. I strongly recommend it to any sufferer.

Yours truly, HARRIET HANNEY.

BUTLERSTOWN, Co. CORK, August 14th, 1890.
SIRS,—Please send me a bottle of your CIRCASSIAN CORN CURE. I got a bottle from you last March, and after applying it to the Corn a few times it completely banished it.

Yours respectfully, R.I.C.

CYCLES! CYCLES!! CYCLES!!!

The following are Extracts from some Testimonials received :—

R. F. STARKIE, Esq. (Adjutant, R.I.C. Depot), says :—

“I beg to inform you that I have been very much pleased with the ‘Beeston Humber’ Bicycle you supplied me with some time ago.”

S. T. GORDON, Esq. (Surgeon, R.I.C. Depot), says :—

“The Model de Luxe (Singer) Bicycle supplied to me by you early this year has given me every satisfaction. No puncture and no complaint.”

Head-Constable R. W. CAREY (Ex-Capt. R.I.C. D.C.C.), says :—

“The ‘Special Singer’ Pneumatic which I got from you early this year has given me the most entire satisfaction in every way ; there could be no better value procured.”

Farrier-Sergt. W. M'DONALD (Captain of R.I.C. D.C.C.) says :—

“As an old cyclist permit me to say I have never had such comfort as with the ‘Model de Luxe’ (Singer) Safety which I purchased early this season. I can recommend it with the greatest confidence to anyone requiring a most reliable mount.”

Sergt. F. G. LEWIS says :—

“I have ridden the ‘Model de Luxe’ the whole season, and have had no trouble whatever with the machine; not a loose nut or a puncture.”

Sergt. JOHN ROGERS says :—

“The Singer ‘Model de Luxe’ with Pneumatic Tyres has given me entire satisfaction. Have had many long rough rides through Fermanagh and Donegal.”

Mr. JAMES SHELTON (Band, R.I.C.) says :—

“The Pneumatic Bicycle I bought last April has stood the roughest treatment I believe it possible for anyone to give a machine.”

Mr. JAMES CAMPBELL (R.I.C. Depot) says :—

“The ‘Beeston Humber’ Pneumatic which I got last March has given me the greatest satisfaction. I have ridden the whole year in wet and dry weather, and much more than any man at the Depot. The tyres have stood me so well that I will not change them.”

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

CORRESPONDENCE INVITED.

A careful study of this page will save money to intending Insurers.

ABOUT sixty years ago, a few benevolent Quakers bethought of establishing an Insurance Company without shareholders to absorb the profits. These gentlemen gave their time and labour free, and at the end of a year they had received £9,000—while but one claim of £150 had fallen in. From this tiny sum and obscure beginning, gigantic proportions and unrivalled profits have sprung, until it is a fact admitted by all parties who are not interested in rival companies, that the profits made are about double the average of similar Institutions.

*Arising from being most carefully and economically managed ;
having shown great vital progress ;
having so large a Life Fund in proportion to its Net Income, now nearly £5,000,000.*

A better or more profitable means of saving money in small sums does not exist than an Insurance in this Company. The small annual outlay being only money diverted from some other channel of expenditure to accumulate at a high rate of interest, if the insured live to reach the age agreed on, or in the event of earlier death, the sum is at once paid to their families.

Reference kindly permitted to hundreds of the Gentry, Clergy, Physicians, Schoolmasters, and Constabulary, all much interested in the success of this magnificent and profitable Institute.
